PROGRESS SHOWN COLLEGE FOOTBALL AUTOMOBILE EXCHANGE

CAMP'S SELECTIONS MEASURE PROGRESS

Thirty-two All America Football Elevens Since 1889 Index to Growth.

ONCE CONFINED TO EAST

Big Four Long Held Monopoly -West Got First Star on Team in 1898.

In the measurement and apprecia on of the growth of football in this ountry there is no index as interesting and reliable and which will serve as well as the annual All America eleven which Walter Camp has been naming since 1889. For him who is at all interested in the great game it is an absorbing study to gather the thirty-two teams which the father of American football has selected and to trace through these the gradual increase of efficiency and interest and ead of topnotch ability first through e East, then across into the middle West, down into the South, and, finally, beyond the Rockies on the Pacific coast-from 1889, when only the East was represented on the All Star eleven, to 1921, which saw all secctions honored for the first time.

When Mr. Camp began to pick his All America teams football ability of high quality was confined practically to the Big Three—Harvard, Yale and Princeton. In those days—1889 and 1890—the Yale veteran did not have to look beyond the select trio for the members of his all star aggregation. His first team-of 1889-was composed of five Tigers, three wearers of the Crimson and an equal number of Elis.

The following year found five representatives of Harvard, three of Yale and three of Princeton on the All America. In a football sense, America was a mighty small country, bounded Boston, New Haven and Trenton, with Philadelphia making a valiant effort to extend the lines.

Penn Brenks In.

Penn Breaks In.

Pennsylvania finally succeeded in breaking into the charmed circle in 1891, when Adams, its great center, was named by Mr. Camp, along with five Yale men, three from Princeton'and only two from Harvard. Penn landed another star on the team of 1892, when Thayer got the fullback position, but in 1893 the eleven again was composed only of Big Three stars.

The next December saw Mr. Camp give Penn three places—to Gelbert at end and Knipe and Brooke in the backfield. Great was the excitement thereover, for

The old company set and the 1888, when the company to the set of t was a very strong reason—the new rules, which put the forward pass into a front position, opened up the game, broke up the power of mass play and made football cleaner, more interesting and more scientific.

With the new rules in force the West began to come to the front. In 1909 Mr. Camp named two representatives of the middle West—McGovern, the Minnesota quarterback, and Benbrook, the Michigan guard, who is regarded as the best linesman ever developed at Ann Arbor. In 1910 Michigan got two men and Minnesota one.

In 1911 we find the name of Jim Thorpe of the Indians listed as All America halfback, and the next year we find Thorpe accompanied by Charley Brickley, the Harvard drop kicker. What Great was the excitement thereover, for the rise of the Red and Blue was accompanied by the fall of the Crimson. Harvard that year got only one man on the All America and Princeton was down to two.

the All America and Princeton was down to two.

Remember, all this time the All America end!

Remember, all this time the All America end!

Remember, all this time the All America end!

And so we move along, football getting greater and greater, moving into all sections of this great country. Tales begin to come East about wonderful players out on the coast. Stories come of remarkable men in the South. Colegate and bloodiest battle in the history of American football. That game resulted in a break between the Tigers and Penn, and the wound has not yet healed. It was in 1895 that the All America list was graced by a representative of a fifth college. The newcomer was Cornell, and its standard bearer was Wyckoff, the quarterback. The next two years saw the selections go back to he Big Four. But the opening of a new era and the first real assault on the monopoly of Harvard, Yale, Princeton and Penn came in 1898, when Mr. Camp named Hirschberger of Chicago for fullback.

Hirschberger may be said to have been the first great football player produced in the Middle West. In 1899 there

O'HEARN'S ILLNESS IS BLOW TO YALE

Football and Hockey Star May Be Out of Sport for

NEW HAVEN, Jan, 7 .- The news of the New Haven, Jan. 7.—The news of the illness of Charlie O'Hearn—an illness serious enough to keep him out of hockey for the remainder of the year and possibly serious enough to prohibit his playing football next autumn—is playing football next autumn—is o'Hearn is still at his home in Brookline, Mass., where he went immediately after the Yale-Columbia hockey game on December 14. Word received here this week is to the effect that he is in bad shape. Suffering almost a complete physical breakdown.

O'Hearn is one of the most popular athletes that ever wore the Blue of Yale and was a great favorite with football, baseball and hockey fans. If he is unable to play football next fall Cant. Jos. Passenger. 1995, 3850. 1995 and Seven Passenger. 2955, Mercers.

O'Hearn is one of the most popular athletes that ever wore the Blue of Yale and was a great favorite with football, baseball and hockey fans. If he is unable to play football next fall Capt. Jordan's team will be handicapped at the start. With a year of freshman and varsity football behind him, Charley should be about "right" in his second varsity season, but it now looks as though some one clse will have to take his place. his place.

The effects of his absence from the

The effects of his absence from the hockey team have been shown. He was by far the best player in the university, both on the offense and on the defense and he could easily outskate any of his mates. With Capt, Griscom, Shiras and Speiden developing fast in the art of team work, Yaie, however, will be able to do pretty well against all comers. Yale is away ahead of anything she has shown in hockey for the last three years, due chiefly to the acquisition of the Arena, where daily practice can be held. Speiden, who has taken O'Hearn's place, plays hockey much with the same spirit he showed in footbail. He makes a strong man on the defense and is a flash, though not the most graceful skater in the world, on the attack. Going back to O'Hearn, who is styled "the hard luck athlete of Yale." it may be pointed out that besides the football and hockey team, the baseball team may be a loser if he is out of condition this spring. O'Hearn played a good first base on the freshman team last year, being a sure fleider and reliable hitter, and he was slated to give Jim Kernan a regular run for his place at the first sack this year.

While not in the category of athletics,

O'Hearn has another acce effect for the better, both being veteran players, who promise much for the comping season. The Navai team played only fives from clubs and the smaller colleges during December, but made an auspicious start, winning all of the games readily and having the opportunity of trying a number of players.

The new players who have made the guard, and Harris, at forward. Garrigues, at guard, and Harris, at forward. Garrigues is a splendidly built youth, weighing about 175 pounds, and it appears that he has an evellout charge of the largest on the distribution of tickets for the football game with Yale except former football players.
